

Recalling stories of learning

Recall a time in your life when you were driven by curiosity, wonder, interest, or passion to understand something or to solve a problem. Write a brief vignette about this time, following the stages of the inquiry process outlined in Learning Module 2. You could write in the first person ("I") or the third person ("he" or "she"). Have fun!

The process begins...

The next step is...

The learner must find...

As the process unfolds...

Along the way...

Making meaning from the experience required...