

Viewing the landscape

---

Describe the context in which you work and live. Try to step back and take a long view of the landscape. Imagine viewing it through a wide lens. Combine this with details about the intricacies you understand through your close associations. Some things to consider might be: the diversity of the student population, the culture and values of the community, your own interests, issues that exist in school and community, external and internal influences and any other aspects that will contribute to this picture. Describe your context in a visual way using a medium of your choice, or make a "word sketch".
